POEM OF FAREWELL TO AMBASSADOR STUART

Hu Ming-shu

Mr Leighton Stuart,
Hearing that you will return to your home land,
"Etiquette demands reciprocity,"
So I present you with a poem.

Although in my poem
There appear a full measure of disrespectful and rude
phrases,
Yet at the last I may represent my fellow countrymen.
In thanking you sincerely,
(Thanking you for presenting, through the hands of Chiang
Kai-shek,
Abundant "gifts" to the Chinese people).

Mr Leighton Stuart,
Do you thus leave,
And not tarry in Nan-ching awhile longer?
In your "intelligence report" already complete?
Can you now "return with full cargo"?
If you do not have enough,
Then wait a little longer in Nan-ching,
Let the Chinese people gaze at the spittle on your face!

Mr Leighton Stuart,
Before Wen-ching was liberated
You did not follow your puppets to Kuang-chow and Taiwan,
But stayed in Wen-ching "to observe."
You truly are not ashamed to be a "faithful old statesman,"
"born out with bowing."
But when you return to the White House, will your report to the American capitalists

STAT

Consist of your "exchange of hospitality" with the Chiang Kai-sheks,
Or will it be the unexpected "generalship" of the Chinese people toward you?

Mr Leighton Stuart,
At first you came to China in the position of a
"philanthropic" educator,
But at the last, putting your tail between your legs,
you sing "let's go back home."
"What did you hear that you came, what did you see that you go?"
Is it that "hearing what you heard, you came, seeing what you see, you go?"
Let us see what you will say to the American people.
Confucius said "To be old and not die is to do well!"
That is like your condition today, old man;
Though you lack the strength to harm others, yet you are harming yourself.
You have been in China several decades
Ruining the welfare of how many Chinese?
Today you return home;
Without doubt you will help Truman
Bring grief to your American people!

Go, Mr Leighton Stuart.
Take along your latest "intelligence reports;"
Go back home, on the last remaining plane!
Here, on behalf of my fellow countrymen
I respectfully present you with a "receipt of thanks."

Received today from
Mr. Leighton Stuart
A gift of various types of weapons,
Tabulated below:

60,731 large and small cannon
10,513 rifle grenade launchers
197 flame throwers
253,876 machine guns
2,005,627 rifles
134 airplanes
123 naval craft
582 tanks
361 armored cars
14,847 automobiles and trucks
379,408,400 rounds of ammunition
3,110,120 hand grenades
1,245,800 catties of explosives.

For the above, sincere thanks!
